Fr. Carl's Thoughts and Reflections

Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time July 7, 2024

I am writing these reflections almost 2 weeks in advance because I planned to be in the middle of my vacation on the weekend of July 6. Since I contracted Covid-19 on June 25, I have to change my plans. Instead of spending several days with my sister Mary and her husband Weber at their home in Missoula, Montana, I will be flying to San Jose, CA, to visit with my other sister Rita and her daughters Meagen and Hayley who live in Half Moon Bay, California. I hope you all had a safe and enjoyable Fourth of July celebration while I was gone! I'll be back July 13.

Our Scriptures this weekend speak to us of God's presence and action in and for His people. The prophet Ezekiel is sent by God to the Israelites who have turned away from God and been unfaithful to the Covenant. Ezekiel preaches to the people & challenges them to return to their loving God. St. Paul writes to the Corinthians describing his struggles with temptations. He begs God to take them away and God assures him that His grace is sufficient. St. Paul then rejoices in his weaknesses, because "when he is weak, then he is strong" in God's loving grace.

St. Mark describes Jesus' return to Nazareth, His home town. Jesus astonishes the people when He preaches in their synagogue. They wonder where He got all this wisdom as the Son of the carpenter Joseph and his wife Mary. The people took offense at Him because He was not following their cultural expectations; Jesus should be a carpenter, not a preacher and healer. Jesus responds by pointing out that prophets are often not accepted by their own people. He was not able to help many people because of their lack of faith. How do you react to Jesus' experience with His own people? Do you permit people to grow and change in response to their personal situations and God's call? Have you become a different person as you grow and mature, or are you stuck in a rut and unable to change even when you know you need to change and develop your gifts?

Looking to the future, please note that our Vacation Bible School is July 15 to 18, 5:30 to 8 PM. The National Eucharistic Congress will be taking place in Indianapolis from July 17 to 21, with many powerful talks promoting our Catholic belief in the Eucharist. The Freudenfest will also be in full swing July 19 and 20 in Oldenburg. Our Rummage Sale will take place July 26 to 28. It's summertime, but lots is happening for our benefit.

Have a Blessed & Peaceful Fourteenth Week in Ordinary Time! Fr. Carl

We feel it in the way we worship, and in the way we love, serve and play.
